

CENTRAL BANK MUSEUM

The Central Bank of Trinidad and Tobago is proud to announce that its newly redesigned and rebranded Museum is now open to the public.

The new Central Bank Museum (formerly the Money Museum) is an open and engaging space that allows visitors to discover and learn about important aspects of our economic and artistic culture and history. Visitors can interact with the technology and artefacts, as well as communicate both in person and virtually with the staff of the Bank. The Museum's foyer continues to serve as an exhibit space that will be used to bring the Bank's art collection closer to the public through exhibitions, workshops and other related events.

We are proud of the new design and layout and we look forward to welcoming all visitors. We assure you that your visit with us will leave you more knowledgeable, entertained and inspired!

You are invited to visit the Central Bank Museum on the ground floor of the Central Bank building from Monday to Friday 9:00 a.m. – 3:00 p.m.
